Statista dossier on medical marijuana in the United States

This dossier presents facts and figures on medical marijuana in the United States. Cannabis used for medical treatments is a current topic in the United States. It has a great potential for becoming a large market and industry in the near future. This document includes interesting facts about the market, developments, prices, and patients. Since Oregon and Colorado are among the U.S. states where medical marijuana is most established, the last two chapters focus on these states.
