Repayment of Aid for Students Who Complete 0 Credits

Students who...

1. Receive Title IV (federal) financial aid for a quarter AND
2. Complete 0 credits for that quarter AND
3. Withdrew from classes/stopped attending classes before more than 60% of the quarter passed (as measured in calendar days)

...may owe a repayment of a portion of the financial aid they received.

When a student meets all three of the criteria identified above, schools are required to determine the amount of federal aid the student must pay back to the U.S. Department of Education, the amount the student must pay back to MCC, or both.

The amount the student owes depends on the amount of aid received, the amount of tuition, fees, and books (if books were charged to the student's account), and how far into the quarter the student attended classes. Unfortunately, federal financial aid regulations do not allow schools to have an appeal process for students who owe repayments as a result of completing zero credits.

The complete policy for repayment of financial aid for students who complete zero credits can be found in the Financial Aid section of the My Way portal (go to the "Financial" link, select "Financial Aid/Veterans Services", then "Withdrawing from School") and on the Financial Aid Office website under "Withdrawing from School."
